Q: Convert date to Unix timestamp? I'm having an issue with some date formats in php. When I import the file in PhpMyAdmin, it's working perfectly and shows me the right date format. PHP Code `$startdate = $_POST["startdate"]; $startdate = date_parse_from_format($startdate, 'd-m-Y H:i');` When I'm trying to convert to Unix time stamp like this.. PHP Code `$startdate = $_POST["startdate"]; $startdate = strtotime($startdate);` ...I get the following error: `Warning: strtotime() expects parameter 1 to be string, array given in /path/on/server/systems/.../lid.php on line...` What am I doing wrong and how can I convert this date to a UNIX timestamp? A: You are passing an array in instead of a single string. To convert an array into a timestamp you could do the following. `$timestamp = strtotime(implode('.', $data));` However your array of DateTime objects is probably not valid. Nitrogen isotope fractionation in bacterioplankton biomass and nitrogen assimilation: An experimental and modeling investigation of the NSP uptake kinetics. Nitrogen isotopes ($\delta^{15}\text{N}$) have been widely used to trace the N source of bacterial production (NBP). When using $\delta^{15}\text{N}$ as a proxy for N source, typically only the N fraction of the proteinaceous fraction of the bacterial biomass is considered. Nevertheless, nonprotein N (NPN) is not always ignored. Here, we measure the protein-only N fraction in bacterial biomass (NBP) and the N fraction in the N-amino acids of the proteinaceous fraction (NAR) at different rates of uptake of inorganic-N (nitrate and ammonium) in stationary-phase cultures of nitrifying and non-nitrifying bacteria, and we show that, in addition to the protein fraction (NBP) and the proteinaceous fraction (NAR), there is also a non-protein N fraction (NSP) in bacterial biomass. We also use $\delta^{15}\text{N}$ isotopes to estimate the uptake rate of ammonium. This uptake rate shows an ammonium isotope effect (A)

A rare case of metastatic penile basal cell carcinoma to the lung. Penile basal cell carcinoma (BCC) is one of the most common dermatologic cancers in developed countries. In general, metastasis of BCC occurs most commonly in the regional lymph nodes, but rare cases of metastasis to the liver, kidneys, thyroid, and lungs have been reported. The present article is a case report of a metastatic BCC to the lung. A rare case of metastatic penile BCC to the lung is described. After partial excision of the lung mass was performed, a pathological diagnosis of BCC with invasion to the lung parenchyma was made. The patient is alive without evidence of recurrence. Metastasis of BCC to the lung is a rare condition, and its prognosis is most usually favorable. Despite the fact that invasion of the lung parenchyma is observed, prognosis can be expected to be favorable.
